What is Rica?

RICA is a Regulation of Interception of Communications and Provision of Communication-Related Information Act. RICA is the new law from the South African Government that requires all customers to register their details from 1 August 2009.

New SIM and data cards will only be activated on the telecommunication networks once registered. Existing customers that are already active on the telecommunication networks must be registered within 18 months from the effective date.

Why must you register?

- RICA is a legal requirement from Government and all customers with data or SIM cards numbers on telecommunication networks in SA must comply with the law.
- You can help make South Africa a safer place, as this law aims to help law enforcement agencies to identify the users of cellphone numbers/ internet modems and track criminals using cellphones and internet for illegal activities.

Who must be registered?

All contract and prepaid customers with cellular and data cards or subscriptions to services allowing access to a telecommunication network must be registered

New customers will need to register in order to have their service activated
Existing customers will need to register to ensure that their service is not disconnected.

Where do iBurst customers register?

How much will it cost to register?

RICA is absolutely FREE!

When must you register?

You must register for RICA from 1 August 2009.

- From 1 August 2009 onwards, all new customers will have to be registered to be activated on a telecommunication network in SA.
- Customers with existing accounts that are already active on a South African telecommunication network will have 18 months from 1 August 2009 to register.

What happens if I do not register?

Existing internet connections that are not registered at the end of this period will be disconnected from the network until they are registered.

What information and documentation do you need in order to register?
